Executive Summary

Founded in 1512, Wolverhampton Grammar School is one of the oldest schools in the country. As a selective, co-educational, and socially diverse independent school of 750+ students aged 4-18 years, it enjoys an outstanding reputation. Award-winning and judged "Excellent" by the Independent Schools Inspectorate, this is a fantastic opportunity to join a nationally recognised, forward-thinking school.

The School now seeks an exceptional and strategically minded Chief Operating Officer to join the Senior Management Team. This is a pivotal leadership role with responsibility for overseeing the School's operational functions and ensuring the continued delivery of an outstanding educational environment that supports both pupils and staff.

The successful candidate will lead and inspire a high-performing team of professional support staff, working closely with teaching colleagues to sustain a culture of excellence, innovation and personalised learning. In an increasingly dynamic educational market, where independent schools must adapt to shifting expectations, competitive pressures and evolving business models, the COO will play a transformational role in reshaping the School's operational resilience and long-term sustainability. The role requires a dynamic and commercially astute leader with significant senior management experience, outstanding organisational and relationship-building skills, and a proven ability to drive operational effectiveness, strategic development and sustainable growth.

The School welcomes applications from accomplished professionals with leadership experience gained within education, the commercial sector, or charitable organisations. While prior experience in an educational setting is not essential, candidates should demonstrate a strong affinity with the independent school sector, together with the strategic insight, operational expertise and collaborative leadership style needed to thrive in this complex and rewarding position.

An Introduction to Wolverhampton Grammar School

History

Founded in 1512, Wolverhampton Grammar School has a rich and varied history serving the young people of Wolverhampton and its surroundings. On the present site since 1875, WGS was a boys' Direct Grant grammar school through much of the twentieth century before returning to independence in 1980. Fully co-educational since the 1990s, WGS opened an on-campus Junior School in 2011 to start at Year 3. From September 2021, Reception, Year 1 and Year 2 children have also joined, making WGS an all-through school for the first time in its history.

Ethos & Values

Whilst remaining a selective school, WGS is proud to serve a broad range of student abilities, interests, and needs.

The mission statements "Education as individual as your child" and "To deliver education that transforms lives as well as minds" form the bedrock of the School's approach and are lived out every day by staff who work hard to bring out the best in each student across their academic, pastoral, and extra-curricular endeavours. WGS is unquestionably the highest performing and most vibrant independent school in the area. Conscious of its history as a city school, the provision of bursary places is vital to the ethos of WGS and represents an ongoing fundraising priority. The School is award-winning and rated "Excellent" by the Independent Schools Inspectorate.

An Introduction to Wolverhampton Grammar School

Community

Wolverhampton is a proud city, reflective of the ethnic and socio-economic diversity of the urban West Midlands whilst also lying adjacent to open countryside, small towns and villages in Staffordshire and Shropshire. All local communities are represented in the student body, which is one of the most multicultural of any HMC day school. Parents and students express high levels of satisfaction with all aspects of the School in regular surveys.

WGS is truly a family-feeling school, with multiple members and even generations of the same families attending and a dedicated, invested teaching and support staff body, many of whom have children at the school. WGS alumni are in touch, committed, and supportive, lending the school the benefits of their experience in all walks of life locally, nationally, and in over 30 countries across the globe.

An Introduction to Wolverhampton Grammar School

Academic Life

The journey starts with play-based learning in Reception, moving smartly through the most effective methods of child-centred teaching going up the Junior School, where all students show better-than-average progress, in most cases significantly so. In the Senior School, a broad experiential curriculum throughout Key Stage 3 evolves to a GCSE framework offering noticeably more optionality and flexibility for the individual than most schools can provide. At Sixth Form, over 20 A Level subjects, two Cambridge Technical courses, and the Extended Project Qualification are available alongside first-rate Higher Education guidance which supports students into the full range of Russell Group and other universities, specialist colleges, and apprenticeships. Public examination results at all levels are excellent relative to the students' ability bands. The school's special educational needs provision, known as OpAL (Opportunities through Assisted Learning), is highly effective and has a cherished local reputation.

Pastoral Care

The School's pastoral care at all ages is particularly well-regarded by parents and students alike. Teachers' pastoral capabilities are as important to the school as their academic strengths. Both Junior and Senior School's benefit from House systems although these operate in different ways as appropriate to the age-groups involved. Year 7 is treated separately in order to optimise integration between those who come up from the Junior School and those who join from a vast range of external feeder schools, most of which are state primaries. Sixth Formers benefit from a dedicated pastoral team and a School Counsellor is available for students at all stages. Student Parliament and Peer Support make important contributions too.

An Introduction to Wolverhampton Grammar School

How the School uses Technology

WGS invested heavily in its IT infrastructure some years ago, following a careful study of best practice in the education sector. All teachers have an iPad and students in all year groups either have their own device or have access to one at school, depending on whether they are Seniors or Juniors. Technology is used to support teaching and learning in a myriad of purposeful ways, such that WGS was shortlisted in 2019 for the Times Educational Supplement Award in Best Use of Technology. At the same time, the school's most important learning resource remains the relationship between the teacher and the students in the classroom: visitors note the discursive, interactive nature of WGS lessons and the effortless natural integration of technology within this approach.

Extra-curricular Life

With over 100 clubs, activities, and co-curricular opportunities each week, as well as an exciting UK and overseas trips calendar, WGS has the widest choice outside the classroom of any school in the area. All staff contribute and all students are involved, usually in multiple endeavours. The school's provision makes full use of its excellent facilities which are located on a 30-acre greenfield campus 10 minutes' walk from Wolverhampton City Centre. An attractive spread of Victorian, Edwardian and more modern buildings house multiple academic, creative and performing arts specialisms including theatre, recital hall, art gallery and dance studio. All the school's playing fields and other amenities such as the sports centre, netball and fives courts and AstroTurf are conveniently situated on the campus.

Governance and Leadership

Wolverhampton Grammar School is governed by a Board of Directors, who are supported by a Council and Board of Trustees.

The Directors come from a broad range of industries, sectors and backgrounds. They are a team of highly committed and experienced individuals whose determination to deliver outstanding educational opportunities to students is second to none.

The Chair is Shaun Aldis.

Reporting to the Head, the Chief Operating Officer is a member of the School's Senior Management Team which comprises of:
